The guys record the podcast an hour after our brilliant victory over Hearts and they take great delight when discussing the performance. Straining to be heard over Eddie's increasingly decrepit computer droning away in the background the topics include the performance of Samaras, the potential within the side and the importance of being on the post at corners. Next the guys look into their crystal balls and picture a place beyond sight and sound - a place where Rangers no longer exist. What would it look like? Would Scottish football survive? And why would we all want to join golf clubs?

Finally they discuss the forthcoming game against ICT and wonder just how many goals we will put past them.

And as if that's not enough, The Human Torpedo returns along with Mogwai for another tale from the Celtic wiki - "Jimmy The Gent."
